NINE HUNDRED
SUCCESSFUL
RECIPES

LULU THOMPSON SILVERNAIL

There are cook books and cook books, just as there are cooks and cooks. This is a cook book all by itself. It does not pretend to deal with every detail in the preparation and serving of food, nor does it attempt to reproduce everything that has been said or written on this prolific topic.

The aim has been to furnish a book for housekeepers and for those of average training and capabilities, consequently we have eliminated much that was merely theoretical. Practically every recipe has been put to the test by the compilers of the book, or by women on whose judgment they could rely, so that in sending out this book they feel they are doing a real service to the thousands of housekeepers to whom they come, and it may be, also, to those who sit at their hospitable tables.

THE COMMITTEE.

The Taste is Right!

- therefore Electric Cooking is successful cooking.

The proof of the cooking is in the taste.

Electric Cooking tastes good - is always good.

And Electric Cooking is easy - it's simple - it's clean and enjoyable. It encourages the housewife to bake more.

The absence of dust and dirt, of fumes, of fuel and excessive heat in the kitchen makes this method of cooking the most successful of all and the most popular because -

The Taste is Right!

This issue consists largely of the index to “Nine Hundred Successful Recipes,” a cook book by Lulu Thompson Silvernail. The covers are adapted from a Library of Congress scan available on the Internet Archive. Other elements are from the Lord Salisbury Chapter I.O.D.E. cook book, originally published in Canada and digitized by York University.

This zine was created in 2019 by Parker Higgins with the support of Kickstarter backers, and originally distributed on paper to 100 subscribers. To the extent possible, copyright and related rights in this work are waived under the terms of the Creative Commons Zero dedication.
